this Territorial question. A plan of settlemen has been agreed on and sustained by the Dem ocratic party, and conservative men of all par ties. It is the best that can be done. Some may desire an amendment. We shall see that me of the South preferred a different selile ent, but they agreed to the one made. Before e are asked to change it, we have a right to sk for something better as a substitute that is practicable. It is easy to pull down; but it required all the statesmanship and moderation of the country to adjust our Territorial policy as it is. If it be changed, let us be shown wha is to take place. Some may say, we ask only what we hold right and just, and we disregar all chances of success. Mr. Clay once advis a friend to desist from plunging into a contes without counting the cost, "Have you calcu lated the chances of success or failure" said the old statesman. "No," replied his friend; "it is right, and I engage in it without regard to chances." "I see," said Mr. Clay, with a emile, "that you are a young man." But to the record. The Democratic Conven tion, which met at Cinciunati, resolved thus:

exclusively on slavery agitation, now relies to test the fidelity of the people, North and South, to the Constitution and the Union—

1. Resolved, That claiming fellowship with, and desiring the co-operation of all who regard the reservation of the Union under the Constitution as the paramount issue and reissue on which a sectional party, subsisting Cons twon as the paramount issue, and re-pediating all sectional parties and platforms concerning domestic slavery, which seek to emr I the States, and incide to treason and armod resustance to law in the Territories; and whose awwed purposes, if consummated, must end in civil war and disunion—the American Democracy recognize and adopt the principles contained in the organic laws establishing the Territories of Kansas and Nebraska, as em-TATTIONIES OF KARSAS and NCOTASKA, as embedying the only sound and safe solution of the "slavery question" upon which the great national idea of the people of this whole country can repose in its determined conservatism of the Union—NON-INTERFERENCE BY CONGRESS WITH SLAVERY IN THE TERRITO-

Now let us see how this was all nuderstood by the friends of the measure. Some of them believed that Congress had the constitutional power to prohibit slavery in the Territories when this bill passed. We may safely affirm that a large majority of both Houses believed the constitution and the power to prohibit slavery in the territories when this bill passed. We may safely affirm that a large majority of both Houses believed the constitution at the power to prohibit slavery in the Territories when this bill passed. We may safely affirm that a large majority of both Houses believed the constitution at the power to prohibit slavery in the Territories was concerned and had the power to do it, to give it to them as a matter of favor—ex gratia. I am willing, as I say, that they shall exercise the power; and, if a fair expression of the popular will—not such as may be they shall exercise the power; and, if a fair expression of the popular will a Territory could not, like those of a State, and the very opposite of what he said.

will serve a double purpose. Senator Chase had offered a proviso, that the Territorial Legislature should have power to prohibit slavery. This was voted down by all the friends of the bill; and it been Inferred from this fact that they intended to deny this power of leaving the people of the Territories, without son for voting the amendment down, whilst he was the people of the Territories, and to come into the Uniou, when admitted as States, either without and the people of Kansas for themselves.—

That is the Constitution, and I stand by the Constitution, and I stand by the part of those who enact it. Yet it will be a wroug without any feasible remedy, so far as I constitution, and I stand by the part of those who enact it. Yet it will be a wrough without any feasible remedy, so far as I constitution, and I stand by the Econstitution. And, again; in the same constitution, and I stand by the Econstitution. And, again; in the same constitution, and I stand by the Econstitution. And, again; in the same constitution. And, ag wowed the opinion that the law gave the peole of the Territory the unqualified and unrericted right to decide on all their domestic lations, slavery included:

He knows, sir, he means, sir, that that lauguage so standing shall have, as in the court below it would have, the necessary hould have no right over this subject but t prohibit slavery. If it does not mean this— ne does not intend this—why did he refuse t usert the words which the instinctive cando rusert the words which the instinctive candor and openness of my honorable friend from lilinois [Mr. Shields] suggested, "to prohibit or to altow slavery?" Sir, no member of this body who is in favor of the bill, need be in the least troubled. The Senator from Thio feels himself bound, in order to resist the introduciou of slavery into any Territory, 10 disavow he obligation of all compacts, to resist the rformance of every engagement, to disavow my, however solemn, stipulations. He can never mean but one thing by any amendment which he offers to this bill, and that thing is

Such was the opinion of Mr. Badger, and of he leading friends of this measure: and it was he sentiment of all who held the opinion, thal Congress had sovereign power over this subect; for the bill plainly allows to the Territoics all the legislative power that Congress has. There were those who voted for this bill who seld it to be the proper course in Congress to rotect slavery in the Territories until they me to form State Constitutions. They were few in number; and did they insist upon their theory? Hear Mr. Toombs, the able Senator rom Georgia, who was the champion of the compromise measures of 1850; and in carrying out the same principle, the able advocate of the Kansas bill. On the 9th July, 1856, he, it running debate with Senator Fessenden, schief to the measure."

I thought it was the duty of the Govern protect slave property in the Territories unnd then let them do as they pleased. There was not a large party to sustain this doctrine but I believed it was right theu, and I believ so now. But a large portion of the South, a great number of the North, true nation ien, said: "Let us leave the people of the erritories to pass on this and all other domes-c relations, as far as the Constitution will allow.' I agreed to it. Congress adopted it and incorporated it into the bills of 1850.

Here was the compromise made in order t get this disturbing element out of Congress of he political arena.

In order that their position may be mo listinctly understood, we subjoin the remarks of Mr. Stephens, another one of the tew who eld it proper that slavery should be provided for by Congress until the Territory came to form a State Constitution. He notices at the ement the raw head and bloody bones -Squatter Sovereignty:

Mr. Washburn, of Maine. I understood the gentleman from Georgia to say that he believed that Congress has no power to abolish alavery in the Territories, but that the power resides tion—ratified by the people in the election of 1852, and rightly applied to the organization of Territories in 1854.

3. That by the uniform application of this Democratic principle to the organization of Territories, and to the admission of new States.

When the people is the people of the Territories have no power except that delegated to them by Congress. I understood the gentleman to lay down these two propositions. Now, the question I have to ask is this: if the people of the Territories have no power except that delegated to them by Congress and a congress and to the admission of new States. hat given to them by Congress, and Congress has no power to exclude slavery in the Territo-ries, where do the poople of the Territories get the power to exclude it there?

Mr. Stephens. The people have, in my opinion, the power to exclude it only in a State capacity, or when they form their State constitution. Then they get it where all the States get it. The people, in a territorial condition, are but new States in embryo: this latest power of full properties when they are Republican form of government.

Resolved, That we recognize the right of the people of all the Territories, including Kanass and Nebraska, acting through the legally and fairly expressed will of a majority of actual residents, and whenever the number of their important processes and the state of the same State form, then develops itself; as wings to rise and fly, though latent in the chrysalis, the state form, then develops itself; as wings to rise and fly, though latent in the chrysalis, the state form, then develops itself; as wings to rise and fly, though latent in the chrysalis, the state form, then develops itself; as wings to rise and fly, though latent in the chrysalis, the state form, then they get it where all the constitution. Then they get it where all the states of the people, in a territorial condition, are but new States in embryo: this latent power of full overeigntly, when they assume State form, then they get it where all the states of the people, in a territorial condition, are but new States in embryo: this latent power of full overeigntly, when they assume State form, then develops itself; as wings to rise and fly, though latent in the chrysalis, then they get it where all the states of the people, in a territorial condition, are but new States in embryo: this latent power of full overeigntly, when they assume State form, then develops itself; as wings to rise and fly, though latent in the chrysalis, then they get it where all the states of the people, in a territorial condition, are but new States in embryo: this latent power of full overeigntly, when they are successful the form of the states of the people of the states of the people of the states of the state

Congress has not such unqualified power; but if it has, as the gentleman believes, then the bill itself.

Now, sir, as I have stated, I voted for this bill, leaving the whole matter to the people to scale themselves, subject to no restriction or lumination but the Constitution. With this dis-chatever shape or color the attempt may be tiuct understanding of its import and meaning, and with a determination that the existence of this power being disputed and doubted, it would be much better and more consistent with our old-time republican principles to let the people settle it than for Cougress to do it. And although my own opinion is that the peo-ple, under the limitation of the Constitution, have not the rightful power to exclude slavery so long as they remain in a territorial condition, yet I am willing that they may determin it for themselves, and when they please. shall never negative any law they may pass, if it is the result of a fair legislative expression of the popular will. Never! I am willing that the Territorial Legislature may act upon the subject when and how they may think proper. We got the congressional restriction taken off. The territories were made open and free for immigration and settlement by the people of all the States alike, with their property alike. No odious and unjust discriminaion or exclusion against any class or portion; and I am content that those who thus go there from all sections, shall do in this matter as they please under their organic law. I wanted the question taken ont of the Halls of native of the force of law to this elementary principle of the force of law to this elementary principle of the force of law to this elementary principle of the force of law to this elementary principle of the force of law to this elementary principle of the force of law to this elementary principle of the force of law to this elementary principle of the force of law to this elementary principle of the force of law to this elementary principle of the force of law to this elementary principle. and meaning of this act not to legislate slavery into any Territory or State, nor to exclude in therefrom, but to leave the people thereof perfectly free to form and regulate their domestic institutions in their own way, subject only to the Constitution of the United States. Provided, That mothing herein contained shall be constitution on the United States in their own and provided to revive or put in force any faw or regulation and sectional strife. The people are to folk of March, 1820, either protecting, establishing, prohibitig, or abolishing slavery."

Here the people are to be left perfectly free to regulate their own domestic affairs. That slavery was included every one knows; asit was the affair in question. Shall Congress interfere to protect slavery, if necessary? Look at the latter clause of this section of the bill. It was surnised that if the act of 1820 were repealed, the laws of Louisiana, protecting slavery that existed prior to 1820, might be residued and suspends all legislation. It has done nothing but disturb the public peace for thirty-five years or whether force of law to this clementary principle of self-government; declaring it to be wither force of law to this clementary principle of self-government; declaring it to be wither force of law to their sale of nor to the cinted or not intent and meaning of this not not to legislate slavery into any Territory or State to the control of the latter force of perfectly free to form and requisition and sectional strife. The people are can. Why not you, gentlemen, around we get the people thereof perfectly free to form and requisition and sectional strife. The people thereof perfectly free to form and requisition and sectional strife. The people are can. Why not you, gentlemen, around we get the ball then, by common consent, drop it at once and forever? Why not you, gentlemen, around we get the ball then people thereof perfectly free to form and requisite their o pealed, the laws of Louisiana, protecting slavery that existed prior to 1820, might be revived. If Congress intended to protect elavery they ought to have allowed this; for it was just what was needed; but it is expressly provided that these laws should not be revived; that if the great principles established in 1850—that memorable epoch, the middle of the nineteenth of the fixing them as the basis and that these laws should not be revived; that if without slavery, as they may determine. This principle was recognized and established after the severest sectional struggle, this country has ever witnessed, and after the old idea, whether right or wrong in itself, whether just or unjust, whether constitutional or uncoustitution-al, of dividing the Territories between the sections, was utterly abandoned and reputliated by the party that at first forced it as an alter-

The Kansas and Nebraska act carries out the The Kansas and Nebraska act carries out the policy of this new principle instead of the old one. The country, with singular nnauimity, sustained the measures of 1850; and all that is now wanting for the permanent peace and repose of the whole Union upon all these questions, is an adherence to the measures of 1850, both "in principle and substance" as the settled policy of Congress upon all such matters.—That the people of all sections will come ultimately, and that before long, to this stand, I cannot permit myself to doubt. Let us hear no more, then, of repeal. Let us organize this o more, then, of repeal. Let us organize this ody upon a national basis and a national scu-ment. Now, sir, has America—with her nundreds of millions of foreign trade, and millt will be seen that the theory of the power hundreds of millions of foreign trade, and millions almost beyond count of internal and domestic trade—with all her incalculable resources of commerce, agriculture, and manufactures in a state of rapid development—has America, the asylum of the misruled, misgoverned, and oppressed of all climes—the home of oivil and religious liberty—the light of the world and the hope of mankind, no higher objects to occupy our attention than these questions which, whatever may be their merits touching the condition of the African race in the several States and Territories, do non-intervention. These men knew that in waiving the quesiou of Territorial power they conceded nothng of value to the South. The people of a Territory, with the power of legislation generally, they foresaw, would have the subject in heir own hands. If laws were made, they sentiment of the Territory. No matter what abstract right a Court might assert, no comnunity could be controlled on such a question. They foresaw that if the people of a Territory would not provide for slavery and protect it, it could not be protected; and whilst they assert ed their opinions, they abandoued a futile conroversy which could bear no fruit but evil to heir own section.

Mr. Orr. another distinguished represent ive from the South, remarked on the floor of longress, as follows:

"Now, the Legislative authority of a Territory s invested with a discretion to vote for or agains seitlement, and slaveholders go there to protect slave property. But if they declins to pass such laws, what is the remedy? None, Sir. If the majority of the people are opposed to the institution, and if they do not desire it engrafied upon required and y they are to do is simply not to pass laws in the Territorial Legislature for its protection, and then it is as well excluded as if the power was invested in the Territorial Legislature to prohibit it."

If the people would not protect slavery. there was no feasible remedy; no matter what residents, and whenever the number of their inhabitants justifies it. to form a constitution, with or without domestic slavery, and be admitted into the Union upon terms of perfect equality with the other States.

Non-interference by Congress with slavery in the Territories is the principle—the only sound and safe solution of the slavery question. It is to be applied uniformly to the creatization of the slavery question. It is congress has not such that Congress has not such the power to congress. It heavy might be adopted. Such was the opinion of these representative men. They saw the emergency and stated it; but they never suggested the idea of coming back to Congress. It would have defeated the whole object they professed—to get rid of the subject in Congress and the political arena, by the policy they power it has conferred that power upon the power is also the proposed of kansas and Nebrasska. I hold that Congress has not such unusualified power; but theory might be adopted. Such was the opinracy then. XXXVIth Congress-First Session. WARMINGTON, Jan. S .- SENATE. -There was Mr. Hamlin asked leave to withdraw certai

Mr. King desired to say a few words on these resolutions. He, in presenting them, was gratified to say that the people of New York were in favor of republican institutions, and our present form of government. All parties there entertained the sentiment that the Union must and shall be unastrated. That sen nion must and shall be preserved. That sen-ment could not be turned to party account, he Union meeting which had been held, had ved the strength of that sentiment, aue resolutions adopted speak for the whole ople of the State. He called the attention f the Demogratic Senators who had expressed isunion sentiments, to the fact that these ex-ressions of attachment to the Union came comprominent Democrats of the North.

The resolutions were laid upon the table.
Mr. Slidell moved to refer the paper on the object of the Houmas land claim to the comittee on the judiciary. It properly belonged the committee on private land claims, but a the motives of humself and his colleague ad been impugned, and a Mr. Benjamin was mairman of that committee, he desired to change its reference.

Mr. Collamer called attention to the fact has Mr. Benjamin was also on that committee. The subject was laid over till to morrow.

A large number of petitions of no generaterest were presented. Mr. Brown, of Miss., desired to disclaim any ntention, as imputed by the newspapers, issail the l'resident or his message, unles assant the President or his message, inless, from the respectful expression of his disseur from some of his statements they considered him in that light. He cut at since a strong personal regard for the Product, but if he did not, his age and his long public services would have insured it. He had a right, however, in common with every citizen, to courteously express his views, and he would do so.

He called attention to that portion of the resident's message which refers to the Dred cott decision as settling the slavery agitation out could not agree with him that the Supremo Court has done what it could. The question has not been settled, and hence a continuance of the controversy. He agreed with the President that the Supreme Court had adjudged he right of a citizen to carry slaves into Ferritory and did not believe the Territoria Logislature had power to destroy or overrid hat decision. The President had said furthe that property in slaves, to his knowledge, had not been disturbed in any of the Territories. To that he disagreed. The whole course of the anti-slavery men in Kansas was to dis-turb the rights of slaveholders. Was it no interference with slavery in the Territories to shoot down slaveholders in cold blood, hund them down like wild beasts, and destroy their property? The whole contest in Kansss wa waged against the rights of slaveholders. The President had further said, that in case ot such interference the Judiciary could apply the remedy and it was time enough to act when the interference was attempted. thought the existing laws entirely insufficient and the time had now arrived for further legslation; and that Congress was imperativel islation; and that Congress was imperatively called upon to act at once. It was too late to act when the mischief was done. The President has asked you, in advance, to strengthen his arm to protect the persons and property of American citizens on the Isthmus, and that can be done. Why cannot the arm of the Executive and Judiciary be strengthof the Executive and Judiciary be strength-ened to protect slavery in Kansas. Mr. Brown then went into an argument to show that the courts could not furnish protect tion to slavery without statutory laws. He avowed his desire for the enactment of such laws. They might call it a slave code, if the pleased, but he no more ached for a slave code than others had ached for a horse code or cow code. While he had a tongue to speak he would demand his rights under the Consti-tution and laws. He disavowed again any in-tention to assail the President, but must be be told that because he was a Democrat and the President a Democrat, he must not express his views, because he might injure the Democratic party? He would see the Democratic party destroyed before he would consent to withhold the honest expression of his sentiments. He saw that without further legislation there would never be another slave Territory, and consequently no more slave/States. Free Territeries were pressing for admission into the Union, and it would not be long, unless slave States were admitted, before the free States would have two-thirds, anflicient to change the Constitution. That done, the purchange the Coustitution. That done, the pur pose avowed by the Senator from New York, crush out slavery, under forms, could be accomplished. What would ome of the Dred Scott decision when the slavery party? He closed by avowing himself a Union man; still he wished to multiply the slave States in order to preserve the Union, which our fathers had made a slaveholding

Mr. Doolittle referred to the great change which had come over the President's mind Then he believed in the power of Congress over the territories; now he says the Supreme Court has established the right of slaveholders to carry slavery into the territories, and nei-ther can Congress nor the territorial legisla-ture, nor any human power could impair that decision. The men of the south had experidecision. The men of the south had experi-enced an equally great change on the resolu-tion, which had been forced by what they deemed their interest. The Senator from Georgia had said in his apecch at Augusta in 1846, there were only four men in Congress who did not hold to the power of Congress over the territories. er the territories.

Mr. Clay said the extract did not sustain the Senators construction, garbled as it was lie wanted to see the whole article. He was ensitive on this point, because a speech made by him five years ago, had been garbled by a thief and renegade named Helper.

Mr. Doolittle said he regarded his construction as correct. He did not object to Southern Dissisted on Northern men doing so, on a threat of breaking up the Union. He had no objection to arguments, but did not wish the meascompanied by threats. He went lnto a legislation of the country to show that every Administration, from that of Washington to the present, had recognized and exercised the power of Congress ever the Territories. He also asserted that Mr. Calhoun, as a member of Mr. Monroe's cabinet, had given an opinion of reorganizing such power.

Mr. Chesnut corrected the statement. Mr. Calboun had, on the floor of the Senate, expressly denied such an oninion.

Mr. Doolittle said it so appeared on John Quincy Adams' diary, made at the time Mr. Calboun's disclaimer was made, tweuty-five years later. The opinion of the Republican Senators was not to be changed by threats of disunion. Such arguments were not addressed to their manhood, but to their want of it. They did not believe that the Constitution gave an unlimited charter to slavery, and were pledged.

The Secretary accordingly read rest on a slave basis. The only result is to do harm to the people of the South, against whom their ven-om and their hatred are directed. He coudemned what he termed the miserable pander-ers to the worst passions of the people. Was it fraternal to appeal to faunties to take the sword in hand for the liberation of slaves? Mr. Royce, explained that in his remarks the other day he meant the Southern States that low exists, the North are resolved to preven t and if war shall be the cousequence of the North determining to preserve the Union, and the South's to destroy it, the responsibility will rest ou the South. Governor's Message. ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. it.—The State Legisla-ure met yesterday. The assembly organized y electing Mr. Littlejohn, Speaker. The Governor's Message is a document of ensiderable length, and refers, almost eu-rely, to matters of a local interest. He thinks policut that the canals wass from the control the State, and strongly urg that they be completed with a water way of seven feet deep and seventy fret wide before the opening of navigation in 1860. The Governor des not doubt either the wisdom or justice of imposing, for a few years, a moderate toll or ton, during the season of navigation, upon all freight passing over railroads competing with the cauals, or of requiring these roads to pay an equivalent in money annually into the Treasury; when the canals shall have been completed the railroad shall be relieved from the burden temporarily imposed. In speaking of the Metropolitan police law, he says that the discipline, conduct and effi-iency of the police of New York fully indicate the wisdom of that law. Even those who opposed its enactment now admit that New York never had so good a police, and citizens of other States now propose the introduction into heir larger cities of a system similarly con-

He recommends that the Legislature grant urther aid for the Central Park. In speaking of the defenses of New York, he Governor remarks that it is obvious that the approach to New York by water is not adequately defended, and invokes the Legislature to consider whether some action of theirs may not aid in procuring from Congress the means for the prompt completion of our defensive works. ensive works.

The Governor thinks that the registry law of 1859 has answered its purpose, and advises some amendments to make it still better. The Governor concludes as follows: New ork yields to none of her sister States in her evotion to the Union. She reveres it as the ruit of a long and protracted contest for lib-rry and independence, and she cherishes it or its present benefits and its guarantees for the future. Her citizens discovered at a very early period that slavery was an evil, and prompt and considerate provision was made for its extinction. So far as our example was orthy of imitation, the other members of the ntederacy had the advantage of it, but we never claimed that we had a right to interfere rectly or Indirectly with slavery as it existed the other States of the Union. We were satisfied with the solemn and earnest declare tion recorded upon our statute books, that we regarded slavery as a great and social evil, and treated it accordingly.

New York still maintains the same position; she emphatically disavows all sympathy or o co-operation with those misguided men, who, no matter what the provocation, have sought in the past, or who may seek in the future, unlawfully to interfere with the institutions of any of her sister States; that the offender in the recent invasion of Virginia intended to subvert the existing government and to establish in its stead another more consonan with their notions of justice and equal rights is not certain; that they proposed to liber-ate and arm the slaves of that region and aid their escape to a foreign country, is beyond dispute; and that purpose, it need hardly be observed, was unlawful and certain to be resisted at all hazards, the blood shed and thus incited rests, in the eye of the law, on the heads of those whose violation of laws provoked or caused it. We may admit that their alms were unselfish and even philanthro-pic; that they honestly believed and lelt that they were risking liberty and life in behalf of the wronged and oppressed; but we must nev-er forget the obvious truth, that social order can only exist through a general recognition of the sanctity of the law and that tranquillity and security must vanish from that community wherein every one shall feel at liberty to redress whatever he deems grayious by raising his arm against the authorities and the lade. Another question is presented where it is proposed to establish or prevent the establishment of galaxery in the territories. Being the common property of the whole people, so long as they remain territories, New York will claim the right to participate in their government, and in no way can she do so except through the agency of her chosen representatives to Congress, to legislate for the territories and prohibit the establishment of slavery said he referred only to Northern Represntatives.

Mr. Doolittle said the first time the doctrine was advanced that the constitution protected slavery in the territories was in 1847.

Mr. Toombs replied that the first attempt to prohibit slavery in the territories since 1824 was in 1849, and it was defeated.

Mr. Doolittle resumed, contending that Southern men now defended slavery on the general ground that capital should own its labor, not hire it.

Mr. Chesnut denied the correctness of the

From the Control of the State of th At James Low & Co.'s, Main at Parss, Kv., December 31, 1889. Mesors, HARREY, HUGGES & Co. Gentlemen: Did you ever write a letter, seal t, write the address, put on the stamp, thrust e letter into your pocket, start off in a great hurry to deposit it in the postoffice, and find it several days afterwards in your pocket? You have? Well, you may then imagine that about the meeting of the Kentucky Associaion of Teachers, ot Paris; but I did not. I didn't perform the first part of the operation, and of course am guiltless of the last.

A good many teachers were present, but the number should have been much greater. These umber should have been much greater. These stings are calculated to be very useful to ooth the teachers and the taught. Teachere are too apt to become stiffened in their own waya, and to render them supple nothing is so well anited as animated discussions at such meetings. The teacher finds that there are methods of teaching besides his own; that Wisdom has not taken up her everlasting abode in the building in which he meets his pupils, and declined even a visiting acquaintance with all other places. Many a teacher seeme to think that Minerva has entered his honse, locked herself in, and thrown away the key. Some of them get rid of such ideas when they counter other teachers. Any one who is not as dead as a megalosanms or an ornithorhyn. cus will derive life from these meetings. He He will slough his old skin, and become nitidus invents, as we and Virgil used to say about the make-sleek with youth.

There were several very animated discuesione at the meeting. The study of history, as it is usually conducted, suffered a little. The subject of "compositions" was discussed with a great deal of spirit. School-government and other important subjects received attention. Addresses were delivered by President Milligan, of Harrodsburg, and Professor Hailman and Noble Butler, of Louisville. In these times of political excitement, your readers generally would prohably not take much interest in a more detailed account of these discussions and addresses. The addresses were well received, and were ordered to be published in "The Educational Monthly," the organ of the Association. Strong efforts were made to increase the circulation of this periodical. It ought to be supported by the friends of education throughout the State. Kentucky should not be behind her esister States in matters connected with education; State-pride, if nothing else, should prevent it. I wish Kentucky to excel in everything she undertakes to produce, whether horsee, mules, Durham cattle, or even Shanghai chickens, notwithstanding the low opinion I have of the last-named individuals in spite of their high standing. sione at the meeting. The study of history, dividuals in spite of their high standing.

The Association adjourned to meet at the Mammoth Cave if arrangements can be made. An invitation is to be given to the teachers of Tennessee to meet with their Kentucky brethren. The teachers think there will be a brethren. The teachers think there will be a good time coming and going, and there too. The idea was expressed by one of the members, as a kind of obiter dictum, that "teachers are martyrs anyhow:" whereupon another observed that there is no reason why a martyr should not wish to die easy, or why a man at the stake should not look ont for a soft pile of ashes to fall in. I think, upon the whole, that these martyrs have wisely selected a very soft pile of ashes. But I have my opiniou that there is not in the whole State of Kentucky a place where the martyre can find an easier death than they found in Paris. The stake was a beautiful piece of workmanship: the cords were of the finest silk; the fuel consisted of aandal wood and franincense; and the fames were of a beautiful rose color. If he flames were of a beautiful rose color you are 100 prosaic to understand all this, let me inform you that the citizens of Paris treated the members of the Association with anbounded hospitality. The weather out of loors was murky, but inside of the honses was unfailing sunshine. It was hard for the members to tear themselves away. One gentle-man, for instance, had resolved to leave Paris on Thursday afternoon, but hearing from two i ntellectual-looking lips, under a pair of bright eyes, a request for him to remain, he felt his resolution fading away like one of the dis-solving views of a magic lantern and before his resolution fading away like one of the discoluting views of a magic lantern, and before he could bethink himself he found the resolution to go changed to a resolution to remain. I am afraid that some children, when they meet at the hour for opening school, will find the teachers absent. Whatever the English may say about "superficiality." I will maintain "against all comers" that "Parisian manners" are the standard of excellence; and however the Bourbons may have hehaved in Europe, the Bourbons "among ue" are fit to govern any people on the face of the globe that are worthy of being governed.

A young man known as Dutch Fred, aged seventeen, committed suicide near McKeesport a few days since by shooting himself through the head with a pistol. Fred has been residing in McKeesport for the last three years, and has been in the employ of William Shaum, steam cracker baker. On Saturday last he met with an accident, hy having the thumb and forefinger of the right hand out off in the machinery. Shrily after the accident, he disappeared, and was not found until Thursday, when he was discovered lying dead in a cave about one mile above McKeesport. It appears he had taken with him to the spot where he was found a pistol, powder, and lead, which we're found near the body. Several slugs made from the lead, charges of powder and percussion caps were found placed carefully apart, ready for reloading the pistol in case of Present-E. D. National Notice (National Street Committee), West-era District, to whom was referred the Engineer's report on the condition of the intersections of alleys, received the following ordinarce: "An ordinarce to improve the intersections of alleys," which was raid once, second reading dispersed with, and passed.

Alderman Baird, from Street Committee, West-ern District, to whom was referred the patition of the awars of momenty on Lytlast. requesting the Council to locate seid street, presented the folowing ordidance: "An ordinance to survey, locate, establish, and improve Lytle street," which was ead once, second reading dispensed with, and itary tactices. I took lessons from him in the practice with the small sword, as did many others; respected him for his devotion to the cause of Italy, in which, up to the latest moment of my knowing anything of his proceedings, he appeared to be absorbed, and have not seen or heard of him since, or for years nest, until his letters were publications. Alderman Baird, from the Revision Committee, o whom was referred a resolution directing the siley running from Second to Third, between York and Breckinridge streets, to be closed, reported against the same, which was accordingly rejected. Alderman Baird, from the Revision Committee, presented a communication from the Mayor a ating that S. G. Ray, pump contractor of the Western District, was not complying with his contract, accompanied by a resolution vacaling said contract, acad directing the Mayor to advertise for proposate for the unexpired term of the contract of S. G. Ray, which was adopted.

Alderman Baird, from the Revision Committee, to whom was referred a resolution directing the payment of $4,079 50 with interest since July 29th, 1859, to Hustetter & Rupert, for the paying of Pope or Fifth etree; ulso directing the stone to be removed from said street in front of the property of these who refuse to pay for same, was adopted.

Alderman Bird, from the Revision Committee, presented a resolution, directing the Auditor to make on the account between the devisees of John Rowan and the city in the wharf, which was adopted. Alderman Baird, from the Revision Committee bscure, or with any of their doings.

Abolition journals are stating that the corexpondent of the Louisville Courier went to harlestown at the time of the last executions, d to the sympathizers at Oberlin. As an act of justice to the gentleman in question, whom we know to be utterly incapable of acting in concert with Abolitionists, under any circumstances, we etate that the impulation cast upon him is incorrect, and wholly unfounded. Adderman Overall presented a resolution directing Mesers. Bart & Mapother to number each lot, as represented on their assessment maps, beginning at Third street and numbering east and west to the city limits, and, on the cross streets, beginning at he river, numbering each lot south to the city limits, which was adopted.

At the time the stone was found there was two feet of enow on the ground, covered with a crust sufficiently strong to bear a man. Deacon last Brown had occasion to page through a tractor woodland about 100 rods from his liouse, and noticed a stone of considerable size CLAIMS ALLOWED.
resolutions were adopted allowing the liouse, and noticed a stone of considerable size lying on the top of the snow, the crust not being broke under it. It struck him as something singular, as there were no tracks in the vicinity and no conceivable inducements to any one to take a stone weighing forty-seven pounds and leave it there. On examining a statistic of the stone it was found to be covered with pulverized hemlock, bark, which filled the crevices, and a hemlock tree standing about four feet from the stone, showed where the bark came from, in the loss of its bark from a space l'owing claime, viz: T. H. Crawford, $123 17, to pay for labor and T. 14. Crawford, $123 17, to pay for labor and materials on First atreet aswer.

Our own impression, from the description given, is that the stone was rapidly revolving, and that it so hit the tree as to continue to revolve upon it, thus pulverizing the bark, and so breaking its own force until it slid gently dea had occurred to Deacon Brown it is quit ikely he would have discovered marks upon he tree as well as upon the snow which would have established the fact of the rotation of the stone. It does not by any means follow that the stone is not an wrolite because it is like stones found on this earth. The fact that aero-alites hitherto found differ in formation from

THE FACE, ROUGHNESS OF THE SKIN. &c.

The IRON being absorbed by the blood, and thus circulating through the whole system, no part of the bedy can escape their truly wonderful influence.

The experience of thousands daily proves that as preparation of iron can for a moment be compared wit, it. Impurities of the hiood, depression of vital sne-gy, pale and otherwise sickly complexions indicate its necessity in almost every conceivable case. In all cases of temale debility finor albus, chiorosis, &c. its effects are delightfully renovating. No remedy has ever been discovered, in the whole history of medicine, which exerts such prompt, happy and fully restorative effects. Good appetite, complete digestion, rapid acquisition of strength, with an unusual disposition for active and cherrul exercise, immediately follow its use. As a grand eromachic and general restorative it has no superior and no substitute.
